

WIDOW WHO TRIED TO SHOOT DR. NEWBURY.

Pretty Mrs. Mildred Hunt Says the Physician Deceived Her by Palming Himself Off as a Bachelor and Promised to Marry Her.

At No. 142 West Sixty-fourth street is the four-story brownstone boarding-house conducted by Mrs. Mildred Hunt. Diagonally across the street, at No. 105, is the four-story brownstone residence of Dr. Denwood Newbury, a married man with children. For more than half an hour this morning Mrs. Hunt and a male companion took turns at ringing the bell of the doctor's house. They were not admitted.

What makes this occurrence notable is the fact that Mrs. Hunt had just been discharged in the West Side Court, where she had faced the accusation that she had been carrying a concealed revolver. Her arrest had been brought about by Dr. Newbury, who said that she had tried to shoot him. And Mrs. Hunt, when she tried, the doctor's doorbell this morning, had the same revolver in her pocket.

The announcement of the doctor that Mrs. Hunt had tried to shoot him brought from Mrs. Hunt an announcement that she had been carrying a revolver of gossip in the neighborhood. Mrs. Hunt asserted that the doctor had promised to marry her and had broken his promise. This causes the neighbors to ask:

Pertinent Questions.

How could the doctor, being already married, promise to marry Mrs. Hunt?

How did Mrs. Hunt, living just across the street from the doctor, fail to know that he was a married man?

How could the friendship alleged by Mrs. Hunt exist when she and the doctor were never seen in each other's society?

Answers to these questions are refused by the persons who could answer them.

All that can be set down is what has been gathered from others than the principals of this romance of a city block.

Mrs. Hunt is a striking woman. She confesses to forty years, but she does not look it. She has light wavy hair, gray eyes, red pointing lips and the complexion of a girl. She has two boys—Harry, aged fifteen, and Arthur, aged five.

Up to two and a half years ago she lived in a finely furnished flat at No. 104 West Sixty-first street. She was visited at times by a large man with bushy whiskers and a club foot. It was understood in the house that he was her husband, and that he was a wealthy contractor of Scranton, Pa.

When the big man with the bushy beard and the club foot ceased to visit Mrs. Hunt her neighbors in the flat-house inferred that he was dead. And after a time Mrs. Hunt moved up to Sixty-fourth street and opened a boarding-house.

Dr. Newbury's Trepidation.

Dr. Newbury was in Sixty-fourth street before Mrs. Hunt. He is a big man with a carefully trimmed vandyke beard. Not much about him is known in the neighborhood, nor has much ever been known. It was news to some of his neighbors that he was married.

Dr. Newbury and Mrs. Hunt entered the West Sixty-eighth street station yesterday evening. The doctor was greatly excited. He told Sergt. Churchill that while he was talking to Mrs. Hunt at the corner of Sixty-fourth street and Columbus avenue she had pushed the muzzle of a pistol against the small of his back and given voice to intent to pull the trigger. He had persuaded her to refrain, he said, and she had consented to accompany him to the station-house.

Mrs. Hunt handed the sergeant a small pistol. It had a pearl handle and was wrapped in tissue paper. Fired accurately at short range it might add one to the many holes in a slice of Swiss cheese.

Just Like a Pin.

It was then that Mrs. Hunt proclaimed that the doctor had been visiting her for seven years and had failed to keep his promise to marry her.

"I am a married man and a father," said the doctor.

The woman looked at him in seeming amazement. Then she backed away. It was just like a pin.

"You married?" she whispered. "You married?"

Leaving her arms on the sergeant's desk she wept. The doctor, evidently affected at her tears, refused to make complaint against her, but she was arrested nevertheless, charged with carrying concealed weapons.

She was taken to the West Forty-seventh street station, where there is a matron. When an attempt was made to put her in a cell she sat down on the floor and gently but firmly refused to enter. It took four policemen to put her behind the barred door. She was held in a short time by D. Dougherty, a saloon-keeper, of No. 227 West Forty-sixth street.

Covered with Diamonds.

When Mrs. Hunt appeared in the police court this morning she wore a white picture hat, a white silk shirt waist, a heavy black silk skirt and a collection of gems that would overflow in a teacup. She was accompanied by a gentleman with black hair who dropped his hat all over the court room.

2 PRETTY GIRLS KLEPTOMANIACS.

YOUNG SISTERS CONFESS, BUT BLAME FATHER.

His Second Marriage, They Say, Left Them Without Means—Held for Examination as to Sanity.

Handsome, well-dressed and respectable in behavior, two young and pretty girls, sisters, were arraigned before Magistrate Furlong in the Gates Avenue Court, Brooklyn, today.

They were Jennie Allen, nineteen years old, and Katie Allen, twenty-one years old, and the charge against them was grand larceny.

Early in the day Detectives McCauley and Britton arrested the sisters at a fashionable boarding-house, No. 15 Ashland place.

"Your Honor, we are guilty of stealing," said the younger sister, Jennie. "We have no means of support since our father took another wife after our mother's death."

In the court-room was a representative of the girls' father, who is employed as chief engineer in Howard & Fuller's brewery. He told the Magistrate that the girls had inherited the curse of kleptomania from their mother and that in childhood they would steal from their parents and give the articles taken to playmates in the street and at school.

Magistrate Furlong looked at the girls in front of him. They were nicely, even handsomely dressed. Jennie wore a white dress and white felt hat with a white veil, while her sister was attired in a black skirt and white silk waist.

"Young women, I am reluctant to send to jail two persons as young and kind as you appear," said the Magistrate.

"I will hold you for examination as to your sanity, as I am inclined to believe that you are kleptomaniacs."

The girls are charged with stealing two gold watches and several dresses from a boarding-house at No. 82 De Kalb avenue, Brooklyn.

MISS BESSIE KELLOGG.

Miss Bessie Kellogg, President of the Young Women's Club, of Valley City, North Dakota, writes the following letter:

"Ever since I matured I suffered with severe monthly pains. The doctor did not seem to understand what the trouble was until the medicine he prescribed from time to time did not help me. He finally suggested that I have an operation. One of my friends who had been cured of a similar affliction suggested the use of Peruna, and so I used it for three weeks faithfully. My pains diminished very soon and within two months I had none at all. This is six months ago, and

HOLD UP IN IDEAL CITY.

THUGS ABROAD. COL. MURPHY TO THE CONTRARY.

Motorman Crowley Attacked by Four Men on His Way Home at an Early Hour.

Although Police Commissioner Murphy says there are no robberies committed in New York, John Crowley, a motorman on a Lexington avenue car, was held up this morning by four foot-pads who were desirous of obtaining $2.75 which he had in his pocket. Crowley was brutally attacked, and would have been speedily overcome had he not yelled lustily for help. Two policemen, Shaw and Wolf, of the East One Hundred and Fourth street station, heard his cries and ran to his assistance.

The robbers were so determined that they faced the policemen and showed fight, and it was only at the point of revolvers that they were arrested and marched to the station-house.

Crowley lives at the corner of Lexington avenue and East One Hundred and Fourth street. At 2 o'clock this morning he was walking home and had reached the corner of Lexington avenue and East One Hundred and Second street when the men sprang on him.

At the station-house the robbers gave the names: Jacob Snyder, colored, No. 212 East One Hundred and Third street; James Fletcher, George McLean and Charles Sheehan, No. 31 East Seventy-seventh street. The police recognized McLean as a man who was implicated in a former highway robbery with a man named Kelly. The four were taken to Police Headquarters today and photographed for the Rogues' Gallery. They were held for examination by Magistrate Zeller in the Harlem Court.

His Draught of Acid Fatal. Morris Pust, twenty-five years old, the tailor who swallowed carbolic acid yesterday at his home, No. 316 DeKalb street, died in Gouverneur Hospital today.

PE-RU-NA AVERTS DANGER

In That Critical Time When a Girl Becomes a Woman.

MISS BESSIE KELLOGG.

Miss Bessie Kellogg, President of the Young Women's Club, of Valley City, North Dakota, writes the following letter:

"Ever since I matured I suffered with severe monthly pains. The doctor did not seem to understand what the trouble was until the medicine he prescribed from time to time did not help me. He finally suggested that I have an operation. One of my friends who had been cured of a similar affliction suggested the use of Peruna, and so I used it for three weeks faithfully. My pains diminished very soon and within two months I had none at all. This is six months ago, and during that time I have not had an acute nor pain. I give highest praise to Peruna. Every woman ought to use it, and I feel sure that it will give her the perfect health."

—BESSIE KELLOGG.

The experience of Miss Bessie Kellogg, of North Dakota, ought to be read by every girl in the land. When she became a girl and becomes a woman. Very few pass through life without being troubled by catarrh. The doctor is called and he generally advises an operation. Perhaps he will subject the patient to a long series of experiments with medicines and tonics. The reason he does not often make a cure is because he does not recognize the trouble.

In a large majority of the cases catarrh of the female organs is the cause. Peruna relieves these cases promptly, because it cures the catarrh. Peruna is not a palliative or a sedative or a narcotic or a stimulant. It is specific for catarrh, and cures catarrh wherever it may lurk in the system.

This girl was lucky enough to find Peruna at last. As she says, the doctors did not seem to understand what the trouble was, and the medicine he prescribed from time to time did not help her. Peruna hit the mark at once, and she is now recommending this wonderful remedy to all the other girls in the United States.

Thousands of the girls who look at her beautiful face and read her sincere testimony will be led to try Peruna in these times of trouble and critical periods. Peruna will not fail them. Every one of them will be glad, and she is now recommending this wonderful remedy to all the other girls in the United States.

"I have been sick with catarrh of the stomach and pelvic organs for about five years, and I have tried every medicine that could help me. Some said I would never get over it. One day when I read your advertisement I saw that it was a cure for Peruna, and I thought I would try it. I did, and found relief with the first bottle I took, and after two more bottles I was as well and strong as I was before."—Mrs. Christopher Filleman, Amsterdam, N.Y.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to J. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis. Address Dr. J. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.
